THE WORLD'S FAIR.

There ought to be National pride enough in every American to wish that the World's Fair should be a great success. New York, which might be expected to feel a little sore over the shabby way in which she displaying only the Pompadour outlines. was treated in the matter of the Fair, is certainly desirous that Chicago acquit itself admirably with the undertaking.

It is with regret, therefore, that rumors have to be woven to order on an extra small of trouble and dissension among the lirectors of the Fair are heard. Director-General Davis feels that he has not been properly treated by the local directory Then there has been a difference of opinion between the National and local Committees on Grounds and Buildings. This is all wrong. The World's Fair is nothing if not National. Local pride and vanity should not assert itself detrimentally to the undertaking. This is where the danger lies. To Chicago, will be largely due whatever success the Fair may have and the city derives glory enough from the presence of the great show in its midst. A spirit of Western glorification should not insist too much on what appeals to merely local pride.

The time for proparation will be found only too short even if perfect harmony, organized effort and the use of every moment of time contribute to success. But jarring sentiments and force lost on side issues will surely result disastrously. The country has a right to object to this.

DOUBTPUL MERCY.

Judge PRATT, of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn, has granted a stay of proceedings in the case of Dr. McGonigal, convicted of manslaughter in the first degree by a New York court.

Nothing is truer or more just than that every man should have a fair trial and that justice should be calm and deliberate in dealing with him. But when a wretch like a comfortable of pale blue sitk, tied down McGonigal, fairly tried and righteously condemned, meets with legal favors and indulgence it seems a doubtful mercy. The public has a right that this wretched man receive his full deserts, and the granting him peculiar priviliges on technical grounds is irritating, to say the least.

Every year shows an increase in the demand for fancy hostery. Footwear is not any cheaper than it was a decade ago, but five pairs of the so-called novelty goods are sold in New York to-day where two cuscomers could not be found ten years ago. This is due to aesthetic culture, rather than fashion.
